

NEWS FROM ESG HEREFORDSHIRE

Free from the fear of flooding

Ever been in a flood or had your home or business devastated by flood water? Just what it's like will be graphically demonstrated at an ESG exhibition at Franklin House, Commercial Road, Hereford, on Thursday 28 May.

There will be sandbags at the doors, tide marks up the walls and smelly, dirty carpets to remind everyone of the terrible aftermath of flooding. The exhibition is being staged to show how ESG proposes to tackle the threat of flooding from the Yazor and other brooks flowing through the city. The ESG team will even be wearing wellies! Bobbie Hadley, communications manager at ESG said, "We want to show people the serious consequences of flooding, and how our proposals for a flood alleviation scheme will reduce the risk to homes and businesses and save millions of £s in flood damage costs."

She added, "The benefits of the scheme will not only protect the ESG area, but much of the northern area of the city and help keep vital roads and car parks open."

The exhibition will be open to the public between 10am and 8pm on Thursday 28 May at Franklin House, Commercial Road, Hereford.
